A Self-Assessment Survey

Learn what your greatest gift is in your call to serve children. Follow directions below to assess which activity, skill, decision, or role in life is your greatest attribute in your ability to be of service to a child. Whatever box your finger ultimately lands on will be the area where you can offer a child your greatest gift. Keep your mind open, suspend judgment and enjoy this self-assessment and you will learn a great deal about your greatest strength as it relates to helping a child.

Adopt-a-Teen

So, come on down to You Gotta Believe’s 10 week Adopting Older Kids And Youth (A-OKAY) parent preparation class and learn about how adopting a teen can become your greatest calling in service to a child.

For instance, when you learn about adopting teens you will learn that your new role in life becomes that of a:

TEACHER ADVOCATE MENTOR COACH FRIEND

to a child through the final stages of his or her childhood and throughout his or her young adult and adult life as well.

The A-OKAY class will also show you how to create a bond with your new child through teaching and/or enhancing your wonderful skills to:

ACT SILLY & PLAYFUL, LISTEN, SHOW EMPATHY, ENHANCE SELF-ESTEEM.

Combine your newfound roles and skills with:

UNCONDITIONAL COMMITMENT
(Which we define as your decision to love)

And you will go a long way in helping to:

PREVENT A CHILD’S HOMELESSNESS

upon discharge from the foster care system. If all of us partners in the child welfare system do not attempt to get teens into permanent families before they are discharged from foster care, they run a high risk of becoming homeless upon discharge from care.

To learn more about preventing homelessness by adopting teens please contact 718-372-3003 or 800-601-1779 to find out when our next A-OKAY class is being held in a neighborhood near you. We are currently offering orientations every Monday night at 6pm in Yonkers, Tuesday night at 6pm in Ronkonkoma, Wednesday night at 6pm in Coney Island, Thursday night at 6pm in Harlem and Staten Island, Saturday morning at 10am in East New York, and Sunday afternoon at 4pm in Jamaica, Queens.

You can also listen to our live radio call-in show “The Adopting Teens & ‘Tweens Radio Forum” every Sunday evening from 8-9pm (Eastern Time) by logging on to www.am1240wgbb.com. And/or you can watch a live stream of our weekly cable access television show entitled “The Adopting Teens & ‘Tweens Show” every Thursday at 12 noon and 8pm (Eastern Time) by logging on to www.bcat.tv/bcat, and then click the television with the #2 inside it under the words “BCAT Live Stream.” Our e-mail ygbpat@msn.com. HOMELESS
NYC Homeless Statistics

• 60% of homeless living in NYC municipal shelters grew up in foster care as children.

• 50% of youth surveyed in NYC study of runaway and homeless youth programs reported growing up in foster care.

• 70% of youth residing in New York City’s Covenant House reported having been in foster care: 27% with a foster parent, 43% in foster group homes.
Nationwide Homeless Statistics

- 46% - almost half – of all youth in shelters across NJ had been in DYFS’s care the previous year before arriving in the shelter.

- 56% of all young adults accessing federally funded youth shelters in 1997 had previously been in foster care.

• 49% of youth in a national survey of runaway and homeless youth shelters conducted by NASW spent time in out-of-home care in the previous year alone; 38% in foster care, 11% in another shelter.

• 61% of homeless youth under 20 years of age reported having been placed in foster care, group home or institution before the age of 18.
The Next Generation

• 27% of the homeless who did not grow up in foster care have children living in foster care. National Alliance to End Homelessness

• 77% of former foster children who are homeless have children living in foster care.

• 29% of NYC homeless parents who did not have a history of foster care had active cases with ACS. Institute for Children & Poverty survey of nearly 400 homeless parents in NYC.

• 73% of NYC homeless families who did have history of foster care had active ACS cases.

Youth in Care Vs Youth Emancipation

• In 1999 there were 567,000 youth in foster care and

• 18,968 youth were discharged to no body but themselves.

• In 2009 there were 423,773 or 143,000 fewer youth in F.C. &

• 29,471, or over 10,500 more youth were discharged to no body but themselves

Why is this absurd?

- Where do you think most 22-year old college graduates, who come from fairly well-off one-or two-parent families, go after graduating with a 4 year bachelor’s degree?

- The Average Age is 26

  - What is the average age that a young adult raised in his or her own family leaves their home of origin to set up a home of their own.

  - I did not get discharged to Independent Living until I was 43 years old and there was no time before that that this was even a practical consideration for me.
Gary Markstein The Milwaukee Journal-Sentinel, Creators Syndicate
Harvard University Press

Published a book by Christopher Jencks simply entitled The Homeless, which reported nothing about the foster care system’s contribution to creating half the homelessness in our culture, but nonetheless concluded the following:

“When unmarried adults get into economic trouble, parents are usually their first line of defense against homelessness. 5.6 million unmarried working age adults had incomes below $2,500. 42% of them lived with their parents, compared to only 9% of the unmarried adults with incomes above $30,000. The contrast leaves little doubt that the main reason unmarried adults live with their parents is economic. It also shows how important parents are in keeping young adults off the street, especially today when the income differential between the young and their elders is widening.”

Commitment
The Citizen’s Committee for Children conducted a survey by looking at the discharge plans of about 200 young people with goals of Independent Living about to be discharged from care. They found:

49% of these young people with the goal of Independent Living nearing their discharge dates had no plan in record indicating what their living arrangement would be upon discharge. This was true for:

58% of the males.

65% of the youths living in traditionally prepared foster homes.

Only 13% of those foster parents were identified as potential resources.

TALKING TO TEENS
When adults give teens the power to say “no” to adoption, what the teen hears:

- “You are not loveable.”
- “No one would want you anyway.”
- “There is no hope for your future.”
- “You are not important enough for me to exert any energy in trying to find you a family.”

Would you give this same teen the option to decline to have health insurance, or drop out of school?
When a teen says “no” to adoption, what (s)he may be really saying is:

• “Adoption is for babies; I’m not a baby.”
• “I am ready for independence; I don’t need any more adults telling me what to do.”
• “I don’t want to be hurt again.”
• “I don’t want to change my name.”
• “I don’t want to lose my connections to my birth family, foster families, etc.”
• “I’m scared to death of more rejection.”
What can 14-year olds do in our society, anyway?

• Can they sign a legally binding contract?
• Can they work at any job, legally, during the school year?
• Can they drop out of school?
• Can they serve their country in a time of war?
• Can they vote?
• Can they go to a local deli and buy beer?
• Can they go to a local news stand and buy cigarettes?
• Can they see a Rated R movie without an adult present?
• Can they drive?
Questions you can ask to identify “now here” families in your teen’s life

1. What person or people do you feel most comfortable with?
2. If you had a problem at 2am in the morning who would you call?
3. Who do you call for advice or to just talk?
4. Who do you turn to when you have something to celebrate?
5. Who praises you and makes you feel good about yourself?
6. Who believes in you?
7. Who do you trust?
8. Who would you call if you were in trouble?
9. Are there any neighbors or someone from place of worship (if teen is religious) who you are close to?
10. Are there friends from school you are close to? Can we be in touch with their parents?
11. Did anyone ever babysit you (or your siblings) regularly when you were a kid?
12. Is there an adult in school or after-school (teacher, staff member, coach, employer, co-worker, etc.) who you feel close to?

• Questions prepared and developed by Virginia Sturgeon
Questions you can ask to identify “now here” families in your teen’s life

1. Are there any foster parents you live with in the past who you’d like to live with again? How about other people who lived in a previous foster parents neighborhood?
2. If you can choose, where would you live and who would you live with and why?
3. Can you name your three favorite adults?
4. Who has treated you with some kindness and compassion in your life?
5. Do you have a cell phone or Facebook? If so, can you tell us a little about the people you program in your cell phone and your Facebook “friends”?
6. Do you have any photos of people in your life you can show me?
7. Can you tell me how we might be able to reach:
   • your aunts and uncles on your mother’s side?
   • your aunts and uncles of your father’s side?
   • Your grown-up cousins?
   • Your grandparents?
   • Your God parents?
   • Any older brothers and sisters who do not live with you?
Article II - Purpose:

The only purpose of this corporation is to work toward the identification, for every older foster child who needs one, of at least one parent who will unconditionally commit to and claim the older foster child as his/her, or their own, by providing a permanent loving home, family, and relationship to that child before the child ages out of the foster care system.
Types of Families Needed For Youth in Foster Care

1) Adoptive Families (Legally Adopting the Youth or Child)
2) APPLA Permanency Families (Morally Adopting the Youth)
3) Therapeutic Permanency Families
4) Maternity Permanency Families
5) LGBTQ Permanency Families
6) Adult Or Institutional Custodial Care Permanency Families
The absence of an unconditionally committed parent in the life of a child cannot be treated by medication or therapy.

3) How to approach potential life cycle resources:

- Never ask, “will you adopt John?”
- Always ask if they would consider learning more about having John come to live with them permanently by selling them on a learning experience, such as asking them to take your parent preparation or training classes.
- Always be aware most people have no idea that:
  - The child is available;
  - They are eligible to adopt (singles, one-bedrooms, etc.);
  - They can afford to adopt;
  - There is pre-placement & post-placement support available.
- Staff adopting kids in its care.

This information taken from article “An Examination of Theory and Promising Practice for Achieving Permanency For Teens Before They Age Out of Foster Care by Rosemary J. Avery” Published in Children and Youth Services Review 32 (2010) Page 406.
FINDINGS FROM DTFA WWK 5Yr Study

• For Children referred to WWK at age 15 or older, the likelihood of adoption was three times (300%) higher than those 15 and older not assigned to project.

• Children with mental health disorders were three times (300%) more likely to be adopted when served by a WWK recruiter than those who were not served.
FINDINGS FROM DTFA WWK 5Yr Study

• Success of the WWK child-focused recruitment model is most directly linked to two key components:

1) Establishing one-on-one relationships with children.
2) Diligent Search
One-to-One
One-to-One Personal Contact

“What is clear from the results is that the vast majority of parents come to be special needs adoptive parents because they have had some personal contact with an agency staff member or another adoptive parent. Advertising and the media play only a small role in uniting parents and children... It seems that, while increasing public awareness of the need for adoptive parents through the media might be beneficial, in effect it is the one-to-one personal contact with individuals that is most influential in securing the adoptive home for the child.”

Potential One-to-One Personal Contact Approaches

• Provide Service With Recruitment
• Supermarket - Faster Lines
• Parking Meters - Prevent Ticket
• Doorknob Campaign - Suspension of Parking Rules
• Garbage Can Approach - Litter
• Waiting Person Campaign
  – Post Office
  – Laundromats
  – Beauty Parlors
  – Bus & Subway Stops
  – Equate light pain of waiting on a line with heavy pain of waiting for a family.
• Liken approach to a political campaign
Other Recruitment Suggestions & Ideas

1) Self Assessment: Are your current families bringing in needed families? If not, why?

2) Training as Recruitment: Is your training the core part of your recruitment strategy?

3) “The Recruiter”: Does your recruitment effort rely on just one person?
   - How are recruitment calls handled?
   - Can you put together a one-to-one personal contact recruitment committee?
   - Plan to take a recruitment budget line and spread it out so that your agency can:
     - Have an army of recruiters rather than just one.
     - Pay the army a small stipend where you can have over a dozen folks doing recruitment.
     - 2.5 FTE for the price of 1 FTE spread out over 10-12 recruiters. Including bonuses.

5) The Only Answer

Second Best Not an Option.
“Think about this. In 1865 the federal government of the country freed 4 million Blacks. Without a dime, with no property, nearly all illiterate, they were let loose upon the land to wander. That’s what begins the aftermath of slavery.”

Harper’s Magazine Forum, Page 38, November 2000
And here it is. 147 years later. And we do the exact same thing to tens of thousands of young adult and/or teen children (disproportionately African-American Latino and Native) in our care every year.

We discharge them without a dime in their pockets, without any property, and rarely with a high school diploma so they might as well be illiterate. And without that unconditionally committed permanent parent in their corner they are simply being

“Let loose upon our land to wander.”

We can absolutely do better for each and every kid in our care.
A Hundred Years From Now

... it will not matter what my bank account was, the sort of house I lived in, or the kind of car I drove ...

but the world may be different because I was important in the life of a child.

We’ve all heard the old wise saying

• LET’S NOT MAKE THE PERFECT THE ENEMY OF THE GOOD.
A PLAY ON AN OLD WISE SAYING

• LET’S NOT MAKE THE GOOD THE ENEMY OF THE PURSUIT OF PERFECTION
• Man’s Mind, Once Stretched by a New Idea, Never Regains its Original Dimensions
